

Missy Greis grew up in Aspen, Colorado and graduated from the University of Colorado with a BS in Exercise Physiology.

From 1992-1993 Ms. Greis served as a Clinical Research Assistant at the Steadman Hawkins Clinic in Vail, CO and as Executive Assistant to Doctors Steadman and Hawkins from 1993-1996. Missy moved to Salt Lake City in 1997 where she started her own business, Flying Colors, a paint-it-yourself ceramics studio located in the 9th and 9th district. She has since spent her time raising her daughter, remodeling several commercial properties in Salt Lake City and volunteering:

Her leadership placements within the League include serving as President in 2006-2007, Director of Major Gifts (2007-2008), Education Vice President (2004-2005), and also Provisional Director (2001-2002). In 2007, she was awarded the "Heart and Hands" award at Utah Philanthropy Day for her work with the Junior League. Missy is a member of the Steering Committee for "Young Leaders" of United Way, and she serves as Vice-Chair of the Board of Trustees for Spy Hop. She is also a Board Member of Utah Moms for Clean Air, is on the Advisory Board for the Sharing Place, and serves as the parent liaison for The Sustainability Committee for Rowland Hall St. Marks School.

She is the former Executive Director of The One-Revolution Foundation, Paralympian Chris Waddell's historic summit of Mount Kilimanjaro, in September 2009.
